

NO. 30

CRAB ORCHARD.

or building. SINE & MENEFFEE, Stanford, Ky.

ILLUSTRATIVE of that want of precision in the proposed constitution which, if it be adopted, will furnish the occasion of much litigation, we cite the 212 section. "Any president, director, manager, cashier, or other officer of a banking institution or association for the deposit or loan of money, or individual banker, who shall receive or assent to the receiving of deposits after he shall have knowledge of the fact that such banking institution or association or individual banker is insolvent, shall be individually responsible for such deposits so received, and shall be guilty of felony and subject to such punishment as shall be prescribed by law." There is a principle involved in this section which is right enough. But unquestionably the kind of deposit, which we assume out of respect for the intelligence of the convention, was contemplated, should have been specified. As applied to banks and banking the word "deposit" embraces both a general deposit and a special deposit. Doubtless the convention intended the former but unfortunately that intention is not expressed.

By a general deposit, which is by far the more common one, the depositor parts with the title to his money and loans it to the banker, and the banker in consideration of the loan and the right to use the money for his own purposes to refund the amount, or any part thereof, on demand. The relation between the two is that of debtor and creditor.

As to a special deposit, an entirely different principle prevails. The depositor does not part with the title to the money or the thing deposited any more than the owner of a horse parts with the title to the animal when he leaves him at a livery stable for feed and grooming.

The purpose of the convention was proper enough. The object, doubtless, was to prevent failing banks from receiving general deposits. The reason for this is clear. If the bank should become insolvent the general deposits pass into the hands of a receiver and become assets in his hands for the benefit of all the creditors, and the general depositor gets only his ratable share. In case, however, the deposit is special, the title remaining in the depositor, it is not possible for him to suffer any loss by reason of the bank's insolvency. The thing deposited remains his own and forms no part of the bank's assets.

To illustrate: A depositor specially with one of the Stanford banks a case of silverware. At the time of its receipt the bank is verging on insolvency and the officers know it. Nevertheless, the deposit is safely kept for the depositor. And this, by the way, is all that is to be done with a special deposit. The crash comes and the affairs of the bank are wound up. The only requirement of the depositor is that he go and claim his property. This he does and it is returned to him. He has suffered no loss and it is not legally possible for him to have sustained loss by reason of the insolvency of the institution. Yet under the section quoted, the officers are all guilty of felony. This is the law as it is written. No distinction is made between general and special deposits.

It is quite a common thing for business men to deposit at a bank for safe keeping a deed, a contract, a will, a certificate of stock or other paper of value. Such deposits are special. The bank derives no advantage from them, and only consents to receive them as a matter of accommodation to the depositor and because of its superior facilities for safely keeping papers.

It would be a great hardship, indeed it would be an outrage, upon the officers of the bank to punish them as felons for doing an act of neighborly kindness from which not only no loss to any one ensues, but from which a positive advantage results. But all the same, such will be the law if the constitution is adopted.

People may say such a law as this will never be enforced. Possibly, probably not! But in that very fact lies the greatest danger to civil government. When laws are so unwise or so impotent that the people will not enforce them, a habit of disobedience to law is engendered. A spirit of revolution is born. One man or one faction will say, if this law can be violated with impunity why may not another? If another may, why not all of them? The argument thus progresses until that temper and disposition are bred which will refuse obedience to any law which restrains the violent or punishes the wicked.

This section illustrates another evil of the constitution beside the one adverted to. It shows the superfluous folly of prostituting an organic law to the purposes of a penal code. A constitutional convention should as rigidly abstain from mere legislation as should a legislative assembly from constitution making.

The Frankfort Argus says there are 905 prisoners in the State penitentiary, where there is cell room for but 750. The branch penitentiary is also full to overflowing and something has to be done soon to relieve the pressure. The convicts now number 1,450 and every court in the 119 counties augments the grand army.

The State Central Committee has issued an address to the democrats of Kentucky urging them not to let any side issue divert their allegiance or diminish their influence and adds: "The fight is still being waged for the supremacy of the right to reduce your taxes to a legitimate limit. No organization for the protection of particular interests, nor your views as to the merits of the old or the new constitution have any concern with your democracy. One is no less a democrat who entertains whatever opinion he may choose on these questions. He is a democrat that votes the democratic ticket." Democrats of Kentucky see to it that the majority in August shall not only justify, but increase the claims of your State to her pre-eminence in the annals of democracy, so long brilliantly sustained."

Three dirty, low-down, contemptible imbeciles, Charles C. Moore, who having played out at everything else, is now trying to make his bread and butter by pandering to the lowest instincts of the prohibition cranks, devotes the most of the last issue of his filthy sheet, the Blue Grass Blade, to the editor of this paper, who would have been serenely unconscious of the attack had not a friend called our attention to it. We have no space to bandy words with such a low down bar, even if we had the inclination. His vapors can not hurt us and if they are pleasing to a certain class of creatures, who hate us with a cowardly hate, he can keep them up, so long as he maintains his distance and comes not within the range of our boot or cane.

These papers are making a great ado over an alleged secret meeting of prominent republicans at Indianapolis for the purpose of side-tracking Harrison and pushing Blaine to the front. The statement is made that our own Col. Bradley was present and pledged Kentucky to the Plumed Knight. An executive committee was appointed by the gathering to call a future meeting and take other steps necessary to secure the end in view. There is no more doubt that Blaine is the choice of the majority of the republicans for the presidency than that he is one of the greatest statesmen of his day in either party.

The State Central Committee has made out a list of appointments for Hon. John Young Brown, democratic nominee for governor, which applies as follows to this part of the State: Somerset June 22, Stanford 24, Harrodsburg July 11, London July 22, Barbourville July 23, Middlesboro July 25, Williamsburg July 27, Greensburg July 29 and Columbia July 30. Maj. Wood, the republican candidate, will meet Mr. Brown, it is said, at some of these appointments.

Col. Wood, the republican candidate for governor, opened the canvass at Lexington last week. His speech was the same one Col. Bradley delivered in the last campaign, spoken without the latter's force and fire, and produced no enthusiasm. Wood may commit to memory the speeches of the Garrard man, but he can never learn his captivating manner of firing it at an audience.

The convention to nominate a senator in the 26th district, which met at Falmouth, divided into two factions, one of which nominated W. V. Weldon and the other S. W. Bradford, both from the same county. There was great disorder and the whole thing was a disgrace to democrats. A republican will no doubt beat them both unless a compromise can be effected.

The democratic candidates for State offices will doubtless ignore the new constitution in their speeches at the convention. It is in no sense a political question and left every man to vote or speak as he pleases on it. The republican attempt to lug it in as an issue in the campaign will if they don't look out act as a boomerang.

Philadelphia has a treasurer now who will not steal everything he can get his hands on. The supreme court has decided that the governor has the right to appoint instead of the city council, and Gov. Pattison has named Redwood Wright for the place. The people of the Quaker City are to be congratulated.

In order to gull the uninitiated public the secretary of the treasury is going to change the style of book-keeping and count gross assets as money no matter what is charged against them. The surplus of over $100,000,000 has been dissipated and something had to be done to keep up appearances.

The State Farmer, devoted to the interests of the farmer and the laboring class generally, with a leaning to the third party business, has made its appearance at Somerset. J. F. McGurney is editor, assisted by V. M. Doolin and J. T. Barron.

The best thing we have read in connection with the late press meeting is Mr. Charles M. Menckan's "Printer's Pl." The tall, strawberry blonde of Christian is not only an orator, but a wit of purest ray serene.

The Danville Advocate's Centre College number was a triumph in description, illustration and typography, and will no doubt be prized as a souvenir of the most noted occasion in the life of the great school.

Lord, how this world is given to lying. Especially the papers which advocate the new constitution! They are claiming that Mr. Watterson has denied the authorship of any of the anti-constitution articles in the Courier-Journal and thereby try to have the inference that he is for the instrument. Mr. Watterson did say he had not written a line of the matter, but he took occasion to say he was the sole editor of the paper and responsible for every editorial utterance in it, and was very heartily opposed to the adoption of the new constitution.

A discoverer to the Cincinnati Commercial-Gazette from its Washington correspondent says the friends of Mr. Blaine are disgusted as well as in liquid over the recent Indianapolis conference. These friends take the very correct and dignified position that if a point is reached where Mr. Blaine sees fit to make known that he has concluded to be a candidate for the presidential nomination, he will not choose to have the announcement follow as the result of secret deliberation by a score or so of men who have been embittered by failure to obtain office.

In serio-comic-tragic tones Wood, the republican who thinks he is running for governor, shouts "defeat me rather than the constitution." Erro Wood need waste no breath in such an appeal. He is not in it and the new constitution is almost as bad off.

NEWSY NOTES.

—The prohibitionists of Ohio have nominated a candidate for governor and adopted a white rose for an emblem.

—The railroads have made a rate to the G. A. R. meeting at Detroit next month of one fare for the round trip.

—There are now 19,375 newspapers printed in the United States and Canada, a gain of 1,000 over last year's record.

—The bank examiner who let the Keystone National of Philadelphia get its depositors so badly, has been fired by the treasury authorities.

—A V. Howell, of Atlanta, shot and killed without warning W. J. McGrath, whom he suspected of writing an insulting letter to his wife.

—The Central National Bank of Brooklyn, N. Y., has closed its doors. Crop failures and poor investments are alleged as causes of the failure.

—The cases against Drs. Blackburn and Grant, of Louisville, for robbing graves at New Albany, when one of the party was killed, have been dismissed.

—At Nashville, Ind., James Story was sentenced to 11 years and $200 fine for procuring an abortion on Flora Carmichael, from the effects of which she died.

—Assistant Secretary of Interior Bussey has decided where a mother's dependence is proven the question of her remarriage is not material to the case.

—The London Echo says that "Little Dick" Ewell, who we take it is a son of the Little Red Hog, got mad at his horse for which he had refused $100 and killed him with a club.

—Prohibition was defeated in Bath county at a recent election by a majority of 250. The county voted whisky out two years, but seems to have acquired a thirst since that time.

—The noted short-horn bull case of Megibben vs. Bedford is on trial this week at Versailles, with Senator Carlisle, ex Gov. Porter, Billy Breckinridge and other noted lawyers on one side or the other.

—A mob of 1,000 people took Bob Clark, negro, from jail at Bristol, Tenn., and hung him with a trace chain. He was accused of raping Mrs. John Warren, but the evidence was wholly circumstantial.

—Twenty-five coal cars broke loose from a train climbing the mountain near Altoona, and after rushing down three miles at a fearful speed jumped the track and reduced the mass to splinters. Three men were killed.

—The Fayette county democratic primaries resulted in the nomination of F. A. Bullock for county judge and D. A. James and Capt. W. H. May for representatives in the Lower House of the Legislature.

—The Hardin county grand jury failed to find a true bill against Moore for the assassination of his brother-in-law, Showers, but there are nineteen indictments against him for forging witness claims against the Commonwealth.

—The coroner's jury in the Snook-Herr wedding feast poisoning, declare that they are satisfied that the victims were poisoned by something in the food, but the nature of that poison they were unable to determine from the evidence.

—A runaway freight train on the Knoxville, Cumberland Gap & Louisville Railroad collided with a hand-car, instantly killing three prominent farmers named Sam Post, Cy Cline and Ed Daniels, besides crippling a number of section men.

—The Middlesborough Electric Scale Company has been organized, with a capital of $100,000. A site has been donated by the town company, and work will begin on the plant at once. The new company already has orders to the amount of $120,000.

—The Burnet House, Cincinnati, has been leased perpetually to Dunklee, Zimmerman & Green at $33,950 for the first year and $27,500 a year thereafter, the lessees to pay all taxes and assessments. At the expiration of 10 years they have an option on it at $50,000.

Miss Gertrude Gray, of Columbia, is the guest of Miss Helen Sautley.
Mr. H. B. Truesen, of Campbellsville, has been the guest of W. G. Lackey.
Miss Mary Myers, of Millersburg College, is with her brother, Mr. S. S. Myers.
Miss Jennie Deason, of Lancaster, is the guest of her sister, Mrs. B. C. Warren.

It was A. M. that Centre College conferred on Judge J. W. McLean instead of A. B.
Mr. C. A. Craig, of Williamsburg, is visiting his sister, Mrs. John Bell Gibson.

Misses Mary and Jane Walker, of Garrard county, are visiting at Mr. A. K. Penny's.
Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Ramsey and children, of Lexington, are with Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Ramsey.

Mr. John Mock, of Lexington, has been visiting the family of his mother, Mrs. J. J. Mock.
Miss L. E. Smith and sister, of Harrodsburg, are visiting their mother, Mrs. S. M. Woodman.

Miss F. E. Jones, of Georgetown, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. Stephen Rank, returned home Saturday.

Miss L. W. Tansley and son, John, and Miss Alice L. Watt, of Harrodsburg, are guests of their sister, Mrs. Frank Hoots.

Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Mester, after a visit to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Flier, at Dale's Well, left for home Saturday.

John C. E. Kinard, who has been in his mother's in Boyle since his accident, was here Sunday the guest of Col. H. P. M. McRoberts and other friends, who were glad to see him so much improved in health.

Miss L. E. Johnson, who has been visiting her cousin, Miss Nellie Johnson, returned to Harrodsburg yesterday and Miss Nellie went to Mt. Vernon to spend the week with her sister, Miss Belle Barnard.

Mr. Clarence E. Tate graduated with the degree of A. B. at Kentucky University last week. His station on "Farrington's Influence," the Transcript says showed great familiarity with the great writers, both ancient and modern, in fact, his production was the work of a scholar of high attainment.

Misses W. G. Burton, W. N. Craig, W. H. Shanks and Carroll Bailey, of Centre, W. G. Lackey, Joe Jones, Jesse Warren and G. L. and T. W. Jones, of Central, and S. W. The thermometer at the Myers House registered in the shade at 1 o'clock yesterday.

Hon. F. O. Roberts will speak here July county court day against the new constitution.

Three ice companies are operating in Richmond and the Register says the prices have been cut to 1 of a cent a pound.

Minks and thieves continue to get in their work. Mr. John B. Dickerson suffered from the former Saturday night to the tune of 27 chickens.

Hon. John Young Brown will speak here Wednesday, June 26th, and not to-morrow as the telegraph made us say. Remember the date and be sure to come.

The Harrodsburg Democrat says that Mr. L. C. Bradley, the lightning contractor, late of this place, has three fine residences under construction in that town, ranging in price from $4,000 to $7,000, besides other contracts there and in Lawrenceburg and Hustonville. "Dick" is a hustler and has always got a move on himself.

The cook at Mr. S. J. Embury's, who was no doubt making preparations to entertain some of the U. B. E.'s secreted a good size old ham in her bustle for the occasion. Mrs. Embury missed it however and insisted that she help her hunt for it. While so doing the ham left its hiding place and fell on the floor exposing the thief as well as the keen trick she had played.

HENRY BOSS, the negro shot by George Welch, is still in a critical condition and the examining trial was again postponed, this time till next Thursday at 10 o'clock.

The two ice men here sold 3,200 pounds Sunday. The mercury was up to 90 by 10 o'clock, but a shower at noon cooled the atmosphere some and made breathing a little more pleasant.

BUCKEYE MACHINES. - A supply of these excellent machines is kept constantly on hand at I. M. Bruce's, Stanford, Crow & Co's McKinney, and W. A. Carson's, Crab Orchard, where twine and repairs can also be had at all times. Examine the merits of the Buckeye before buying. J. O. Shields, general agent, Stanford.

We haven't seen a great many, it is true but of those with whom we have conversed in this section, only one has expressed himself for the new constitution, and he helped make it. Unless there is a mighty change, Lincoln county will add a large quota to the majority that will show the concern under in August.

A good break into the collar of the residence of the editor of this paper Friday night and got off with everything he had to eat, besides numerous other things. It must be a miserably mean thief who would steal from an editor's hard earned store. We'll give $10 to see him and $10 more to have him break in again.

By a mistake in the dispatch we were led to assume that Hon. John Young Brown would speak here to-morrow, 17th, when we should have said Wednesday, 26th. The whole county should turn out on that day to hear the next governor of Kentucky discuss politics as only the polished orator can. It will be well worth anybody's time to be present.

HENRY BOSS, of Louisville, recovered a variety of personal damages against the L. & N. at Owensboro, for ejection from a train last July. Mr. Davis, who is a drummer, had his trunk checked from here to Williamsburg by the night train. He was asleep when he got to that place and the conductor failed to put him off. He was taken to Jellico and on boarding a train and demanding to be taken back without fare to Williamsburg, he was forcibly ejected and in the scuffle received a severe cut in the head. At least he showed a bad scar and worked the jury up to the high damages it gave him.

BEAT THE HARRODSBURGERS. - Our namesakes again evinced their ability to play ball Saturday afternoon at Harrodsburg by beating the club of that city 21 to 12. Although our team was forced to leave three of its best players at home, the partly patched up nine had no trouble in downing Capt. Board's team of semi-professionals. Reccons, who is now a regular member of the Lexington team, club, did beautiful work and a dozen or more of the opposing team sawed the air in reaching for his deceptive curves. Wilson also did splendid work behind and Ramsey, who played short stop, played a beautiful game and made 6 of the 18 scores. Rodney Jones umpired, and while we believe that he was conscientious in his decisions, some of them were pretty rank against our boys.

Three little boys named Shehan, Gibbons and Ryan, varying in ages from 10 to 14, and having from Lexington, got this far on their tour of the country Friday, when having spent all their money and gotten very homesick, they applied for and to enable them to get back to their mamma. The mayor gave them over to the Carpenter House and telegraphed the boys' fathers. Two of them came on the 11:15 a. m. train and returned at 2:47 a. m. with the little mammas, after paying their bills. The boys were dressed in very smart attire, either jackets and knee breeches, just as they went at home, and when George Carpenter put them to bed, they all huddled together, the odd one being afraid to sleep by himself. They were a pretty sick trio and were very glad to see their mamma come even with the prospect of having their bills tanned.

IS IT? - Notwithstanding the fact that the kids yelled until their throats were sore and the charming young ladies blistered the hands applauding for the Danvilles, the invincible, the irrepressible base ball nine of that city (?) were defeated by the humble Lexington team by a score of 18 to 7. The "picketed up" nine, as they claimed, included some of the best talent that the great and learned Danvilles have ever sent to the diamond as well as timber from Lexington and windy Chicago. Yes, the humble L. J.'s defeated 'em with the greatest ease and could do it again when it is necessary. The score shows that the game was one-sided and a softer snap our boys have not tackled for many a day, although the L.'s had their own umpire and everything their own way. In a game where there are so many scores it seems an expenditure of breath to tell of the "special features," but Reccons, our pitcher, and Wilson, the crack-catcher, are deserving of praise, as well as Ramsey, who won additional laurels in both batting and base-running.

TAKE your eggs to the Cash Bargain Store and get 12 1/2 cents per dozen. Joe S. Jones.

WHEAT cutting is on in earnest this week. Mr. Forester Reid, who has 50 acres, thinks his will average 15 to 18 bushels per acre, while crops generally will be better than was recently supposed. The hay crop is not over half the usual amount and oats is worse. Owing to the high price of seed and the wet weather at sowing time, not over a third of a crop of oats was put in and that produced less than half the usual yield per acre.

LOUIS BROTHER, one of the U. B. E.'s now living in Louisville, but formerly a Stanford darkey, got off the excursion train at Junction City to get an "eye-opener" and the train left him. He took on a little more than he should have and started out to walk to this place. A freight train passed and waked him too close to the track he was struck by the engine and knocked down, sustaining a gash in his head that may result in the loss of his life. He also had an arm badly hurt.

SUNDAY was a huge day with the colored population. Talleviate Temple, No. 7, of Stanford, entertained the U. B. E. and S. M. T. of Louisville, who came on a special train to the number of over 200. All the surrounding towns and country swelled the number till it is estimated that 800 to 1,000 colored strangers were in town. To their credit be it said everything passed off in a most orderly and commendable manner, not a single disturbance occurring that we heard of. Could the same number of white people promiscuously gathered have made such a record?

THE elections for school trustees as usual created strife in several districts. Contests have come before Capt. W. F. McClary from quite a number, including Turtleville and McDonough's. In the former by striking out the proxy votes and those outside of the district, J. F. Cover is given a majority of three, but we learn that the matter will be appealed to the county board. At McDonough's the face of the returns showed Sam Bishop, P. W. Carter and T. J. Hill elected, but by striking the proxies, Carter, Hill and H. E. Marmon are left a tie and the superintendent will have to appoint.

HON. W. H. MITCHELL has buckled on his armor and taken the war path for the new constitution and will speak as follows: To-night, 16th, at Bright's School House; Wednesday night, 17, Preachersville; Thursday night, 18, Sugar Grove; Saturday afternoon, 20, Waynesburg, same night, Highland; Monday night, 22, Millidgeville; Tuesday night, 23, McKinney; Wednesday night, 24, Rowland; Saturday afternoon, 27, Crab Orchard; Saturday afternoon, July 11, Perkins Store; Bee Lick; Monday afternoon, 13, Stanford; Round Knob School House, 14th, at night; White Oak, 15th, at night; Kingsville, 16th, at night; Goschen, 17th, at night, and at Anderson's School House, near Ephesus, 18th, in afternoon. He will also speak at other points, which will be announced later. Hon. R. P. Jacobs will likely be with Mr. Mitchell at some of the appointments. Afternoon speaking at 2:30, night at 7:30.

CHURCH AFFAIRS.

-Evangelist Linnore's meeting at Louisville resulted in 108 additions to the Campbell street Christian church.

-It is said Father Mollinger, the faith cure priest of Allegheny City, has been summoned to Rome to minister to the Pope.

-This seems to be a bad year on preachers. The Rev. John S. Ray was sentenced at Wooster, O., to two years in the penitentiary for burglary.

-The old jail site at Lexington has been bought by the Y. M. C. A. from W. J. Withers for $12,000, and a handsome $50,000 building will be erected in the fall.

-Rev. A. J. Ramsey, of Richmond, has accepted the call as a supply to the Baptist church, until Sept. 1, at which which time Rev. H. T. Daniel will resume his labors - Paris, Kentucky.

-Bishop Knight, of Milwaukee, left a will providing that his body be buried in a plain pine coffin, and that no outer box or covering be used when his body was lowered into the grave. His wish was carried out.

-The Methodist children day collections since the first observance in 1887, have amounted to $37,713.93, an average of $4,128.50 a year. It is thought that this year's collection will be much greater.

-The Christian church people are putting their houses in order to entertain the large crowd that will attend the Sunday School Convention to be held here 23d to 25th. Let everybody help and send the delegates away well pleased with Stanford.

-The Conference committee finds that Rev. Sam Small is short only a beggarly $1,000 in his account with the Ogden University, and refuses to take action against such a narrow-gauge reformer. There seems to be something small about Sam, besides his name, - Louisville Times.

-The town marshal and the postmaster of Litchia Springs, Ga., were shot and cut down on the streets Saturday night by disorderly negroes whom they had attempted to arrest. Most of the negroes are in jail, and should the men die, as seems likely, conservative citizens fear a wholesale lynching.

-Rev. George Hunt, who has so faithfully and so acceptably filled the pulpit of the Baptist church here for several years, tendered his resignation Sunday, to take effect in July. The church has builded up under Mr. Hunt's ministry and the public no less than the members will regret to have him leave.
